ABOUT UW-GREEN BAY

UW-Green Bay is a regional, public university in Green Bay, Wis., with additional campuses in Marinette, Manitowoc and Sheboygan. Founded in 1965, it is part of the University of Wisconsin System.

As the only university in Wisconsin with four campuses on the water (Lake Michigan and the Bay of Green Bay), our thinking is as fresh as our Founders intended — in 1965 they earned national and international acclaim for creating an innovative interdisciplinary, environmental academic focus (Eco U) that continues today. The University offers more than 200 major, minors and programs for students to grow and explore their interests.

The Green Bay campus is surrounded by 290 acres of trees in the Cofrin Memorial Arboretum, a living sanctuary for 45 mammal and 200 bird species. It is also home to the Weidner Center for the Performing Arts, an acoustically outstanding venue which hosts students alongside acclaimed musicians, singers, comedians, theatrical productions, dances, lectures and films.

UW-Green Bay is a tough competitor in Division I college athletics. The University is home to more than 250 student athletes who participate on 14 Horizon League teams. Student-athletes develop discipline and leadership skills through rigorous training and competition.

Chancellor Michael Alexander

LEADERSHIP

UW-Green Bay Chancellor Michael Alexander believes in the power of education – to transform lives, ensure equity and inclusivity and elevate the Northeast Wisconsin region as a destination to live, learn, work and play.

“Our mission and vision is to be a university that fearlessly meets challenges, solves problems, embraces diversity, cares about our region and provides access to education for all who want it. Through these actions, we honor the innovative spirit of the founders of the University and move ourselves forward.”

— Michael Alexander, Chancellor, UW-Green Bay

As the fastest-growing UW school in the state, Alexander and his leadership team place student success at the forefront, developing programs and adding resources to assist students along every step of their educational journeys.

Engagement with community leaders and generous community support enabled a new School of Engineering, an Institute of Music, an expanded Nursing program, new majors in audio production, personal finance and investing, and over $1.3 million in annual student scholarships to educate the workforce of the future.
