Information regarding cardholder's account will not be provided to third parties unless required by court order, applicable laws, public safety, or with written permission of the cardholder.

The University ID card should be carried with you or be readily available while on any UW-Green Bay campus. You will be asked to present your University ID card to access select buildings and classrooms on the Green Bay campus, to access your University Accounts (Pass Points or Dining Points), and to gain access to campus services. The cardholder of the University ID card is the only individual allowed to use their University ID card for any purpose. Anyone attempting to use a University ID card that is not their own is subject to disciplinary and/or legal action.

Liability:

If your University ID card is lost or stolen, you are responsible for all transactions until your University ID card is reported lost or stolen. You can report your University ID card lost or stolen 24/7 by logging into the eAccounts portal. Your lost University ID card can also be de-activated by purchasing a replacement University ID card. There is a cost for the replacement.

Error Resolution:

Potential discrepancies with one of your University Accounts must be reported to universityid@uwgb.edu immediately. University ID Services will investigate any potential discrepancy and determine a resolution if needed. You may be asked to file a Police Report with University Police if the discrepancy may have involved illegal activity by a third party.

The Pass Points account is a non-refundable account while you are enrolled in classes at UW-Green Bay. However, within two weeks after your departure or graduation from UW-Green Bay, you are eligible for a partial refund of your Pass Points balance.
