Grandparents' University here at UW-Green Bay is a unique experience for generations to learn together. Grandparents want to spend time with their grandkids, but they want to have fun. They don't want to just sit around or take them to some place and stand.

When grandparents come to Grandparents' University, they take classes together, they earn a degree, they even graduate in a major and they have a lot of fun together. It's a memory-maker, is what we call it.

The kids feel really special, because their grandparent has singled him or her out. They're going to spend a day-and-a-half (together). Maybe they'll stay in a dorm together. Maybe they'll feel really grown up because they're staying in a dorm just like the college kids. And there's the hope that (after) having spent time on a campus they'll see that it's really fun to learn. It's not scary. And maybe they'll come back to UW-Green Bay or perhaps another college in the UW System.

It's a good way to get together with your grandparents and it's a lot of fun. You can learn a lot from coming here. It's just fun. You can stay in a dorm so it's like being in college.

When I laid down on that bed in the dorm room, it just felt like 40 years hadn't even passed. It felt just the same. And so being in the dorm has been great. It's been really fun for me, and fun to see Evan enjoy what he's doing. And time together. We're pretty close so that's important to me, too.

The best part about Grandparents' University I think is the graduation. It's really fun. Kids get to walk across the stage, they get a diploma, and they're a star for a moment. The grandparents have an opportunity to applaud their grandchild and that's a nice opportunity to have.

I would recommend it to anybody. It's lots of fun. It really shows our grandkids that you never stop learning, you never stop improving your mind and exercising your mind. And that's what it's all about.
