Learning Technology Services presents . . .

Improved Online Teaching
with Focus on Effective Assessment

This face to face workshop will be facilitated by Penny Ralston-Berg, an expert in online pedagogy and course design. Ms. Ralston-Berg will guide participants through a number of activities that will explore alignment of course activities and assessments with course learning outcomes. Identified gaps and challenges will be addressed with effective online assessment strategies focused on student learning and enhanced engagement.

Upon completion of the workshop, participants will:

- Determine strategies in online teaching that will improve students’ online course experience and enhance learning.
- Select strategies to incorporate in online teaching that will enhance student learning and achieve learning outcomes.
- Increase awareness of alignment and possible gaps between course learning outcomes.

Workshop Resources:

- Exchange and collaboration of ideas and strategies between instructors/participants.
- Interaction with and guidance from national expert in online teaching and learning.
- Workshop binder with select references and support materials.

Online Registration is now open!

UW-Stout Employee Registration:  Click Here
All other individuals, register by email to: kotulekm@uwstout.edu

This workshop is made possible through a grant from the UW System Office of Professional and Instructional Development.

Please Note: Pre-Registration Required. Any cancellation for participation in this session should be made promptly so that others on the wait list may have the opportunity to participate. There may be pre-workshop activities.