So What to do...

- Let Ben use his creativity in the early stages of the group process, but make sure to reel him in, sometimes his eyes are bigger than his stomach.
- Use Ben's skills in graphic design and video production
- Ask Ben if he wants to speak during presentations, it's not his favorite thing to do, but he needs the practice.

So What not to do...

- Be late, even though Ben is a perceiver he is never late and gets especially annoyed when you are, of course he'll understand if you tell him ahead of time.
- Assume that Ben isn't thinking just because he's quiet. The gears are always turning, they're just well lubricated.
- Disregard other group member's ideas. Sometimes the most obscure idea is the best one.

Schedule...

Monday- Open from 3pm – 7pm and after 9:30 Tuesday- Open after 8:30pm Wednesday- open after 12pm
Thursday- Open after 5pm Friday- Open after 12pm Sunday- Open after 4pm

Ben is also part of Channel 20, works for Career Services and is a Student Ambassador, therefore he has a tight schedule and would appreciate the group staying on task during meetings. Ben is an avid cyclist so sometimes he might be physically drained during a meeting, but don't worry his brain is always ready to go.
