TIME, PLACE, AND MANNER POLICY

The University Union, along with the university, itself, encourage free expression that promotes the sharing, understanding, and acceptance of others to induce learning. If an organization wants to use an area in the Union for this purpose, the University Union staff and University Union Policy Board reserve the right to govern the request specific to time, place, and manner appropriate for their situation in accordance with all other university and UW-System policies, as well as local, state, and federal laws. This is to ensure that the rights of the people reserving the space, people interested, and those not interested, are respected.
