What does she know that you may not?

That UW-Green Bay’s highly regarded program provides a rare opportunity to immerse herself in an environmental issue — from problem, to policy, to solution. And that she will leave with significant applied learning and research so that she can return home to make a difference in her community and her country.

Considering a Master’s degree? Let’s have a conversation.

Thank You and Acknowledgements

The 2014 American Multicultural Student Leadership Conference (AMSLC) Planning Committee would like to thank the UW-Green Bay multicultural student organizations: Black Student Union, Southeast Asian Student Union, Intertribal Student Council, Women of Color and Organizacion Latino Americana, Student Government, Chancellor Thomas Harden, Provost Julia Wallace, UW System IDEASS, the Greater Green Bay Convention and Visitor’s Bureau and the American Intercultural Center who provided a variety of resources to make this conference possible.

“360° of Diversity: EMPOWERED BY the Past, Inspiring the PRESENT and Becoming Future LEADERS” would have been impossible to put on without the generous financial support of campus’s multicultural student organizations, Student Government, Chancellor Thomas Harden, Provost Julia Wallace, UW System IDEASS, UW-Green Bay Office of Graduate Studies and the American Intercultural Center. The 2014 AMSLC Planning Committee would like to thank all those who assisted with the planning and implementation of the conference and to those who support the mission of the conference.
