

First Nations Studies | 2014-2015 Assessment Plan

1. Which outcome will you assess?
 - History – Precontact, Contact, Contemporary Eras
2. Which technique will you use to assess this outcome?
 - History – Precontact, Contact, Contemporary Eras
 - Students will demonstrate an understanding of First Nations history in each of the three eras – precontact, contact, and contemporary.
 - Students will demonstrate an in-depth developed historical awareness of the history of one nation in Wisconsin.
 - Students will draw upon the oral tradition in the study of history.
 - Students will use electronic and written sources in their study of history.
 - Students will identify the political, economic, and social status of First Nations in each of the three historical eras.
3. Which course or group of students will you assess on the outcome chosen above and when?
 - The outcome will be assessed orally and through the development of portfolios in the FNS seminar/capstone (Spring 2015 Leary).
 - Poupart received a Teaching Scholar grant for Spring 2015 to continue working on a culture based assessment rubric. It is the intent of FNS to implement this rubric in 2015 as a self assessment for students.
4. Who will do the assessment and coordinate the data collection and reporting?
 - Leary – FNS Seminar Poupart – rubric development and implementation
