Continuing Professional Education

Building Cultural Competence: Understanding the LGBTQ+ Community

This training will develop and enrich your knowledge of the LGBTQ+ community and share the history of the struggles they have faced. Do you know and understand the history of the Gay Rights Movement? What states allow for legal same-gender marriage? What does the '+' or the 'Q' in the title of this training mean? Explore the history and development of the LGBTQ+ culture, movement and advocacy through the 20th century and into the 21st century. Strengthen your knowledge and practice with people of this community and experience a culture and history often untold.

Friday, March 15, 2019

Registration: 8-8:30 a.m.

Session: 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

The Woods Golf Club

530 Erie Road, Green Bay, WI

This training will explore the responsibilities, statutes and regulations regarding Wisconsin DSPS licensure and certification for substance abuse counselors and supervisors. Practitioners will discuss possible ethical situations in working with supervisees, as well as professional boundary setting. Attendees will gain knowledge on self-care and compassion fatigue. This training will satisfy continuing education credit hours for biennium ethics and boundaries training for social workers.

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this training, participants will:

- Examine Wisconsin statutes as they pertain to supervisors, counselors and state certified clinics
- Identify appropriate characteristics of supervisors
- Explore boundary issues with supervisors and supervisees
- Examine practice scenarios involving ethical dilemmas with supervisors and supervisees
- Outline risk factors and elements of self-care supervisors may face
- Explore compassion fatigue

First Nations Workshops

UW-Green Bay's First Nations workshops will increase participant's understanding of issues related to the history, culture and tribal sovereignty of the federally recognized Native American Nations and bands in Wisconsin. Each workshop provides experiential learning and accurate, authentic information designed to improve and enrich professional practice that is culturally appropriate and reflective of First Nations peoples.

The workshops use teaching methods reflecting tribal oral tradition, Elder epistemology and participatory learning. In addition, they will also reflect tribal core values sometimes referred to as the "4Rs" – respect, reciprocity, relationship and responsibility. Participants will learn First Nations content but also experience it in cultural context and practice consistent with First Nations cultural norms.

Session 5: First Nations Generational Healing for Professionals

Co-Facilitated by Forrest Brooks and Lisa Poupart

Friday, February 15, 2019

The final session in the series focuses on the idea and practice of generational healing. A brief contextualization of historical and generational trauma will start the session and participants will be grounded to a renewal of relationships using Indigenous protocols. Discussion will cover various examples of Indigenous traditions, including how to relate to their healthy ways of being and how they relate to the world. In addition, the concept of the medicine wheel, which is used as a way of connecting and building relationships, will be reviewed in depth. Participants will be given the opportunity to discuss and apply the concepts of the practice of healing while focusing on their own ways of interacting and working with Indigenous peoples.

Session 1: Understanding First Nations

Co-Facilitated by Forrest Brooks and Lisa Poupart

Friday, March 8, 2019

This first session in the series will ground participants in the multiple facets of Indigenous identities and their relationship to original practices and belief systems. Participants will reflect on their own preconceptions in order to examine development, interaction and diversity of relationships with First Nations peoples. Participants will also explore the concept of cultural humility as it relates to working with First Nations individuals and families.

Earn Your First Nations Professional Certificate

There are five First Nations Workshops available in the series. Sessions 5 and 1, respectively, are available this spring. If you are interested in taking all five First Nations Workshops, the remaining sessions will be offered on a rotating basis. Participants who complete all five sessions will earn the UW-Green Bay First Nations Professional Certificate and 3 CEUs/30 CEHs.

To learn more about the First Nations Professional Certificate program, please call 920-465-2642.

About the Instructors

Lisa M. Poupart, Ph.D., is a member of the Lac du Flambeau Band of Lake Superior Anishinaabeg. She is an Associate Professor of First Nations Education, Women's and Gender Studies and Humanities at UW-Green Bay. Dr. Poupart chairs the UW-Green Bay First Nations Education Program and co-directs the Education Center for First Nations Education. She also directs the First Nations Education Doctoral Program (Ed.D.) – the first doctoral program at UW-Green Bay. Her work centers on First Nations generational healing of historic trauma. She is an international board member of Debwewin, a nonprofit First Nations organization dedicated to education about traditional healing systems to promote the wellness of all beings and the Earth.

Forrest Brooks, MA, is a member of the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin, with family lines also in the Stockbridge-Munsee and Menominee Nation communities. He serves as a Lecturer in First Nations Education within the Humanities program at UW-Green Bay. He served as an Academic Advisor, assisting in outreach to several Indigenous communities in Wisconsin. Prior to working at the University, Brooks worked with the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin in several capacities in the creation of Oneida language teaching materials and as a teacher of Oneida language. He is part of the team that created the First Nations Ed.D. – the first doctoral program at UW-Green Bay.

Ethics and Boundaries: Trauma-Informed Practice

This ethics and boundaries training will explore the role of trauma-informed care and identify how professional practices impact the framework for intervention. Practitioners will gain knowledge of how trauma-informed environments can support and enhance ethical practices, set appropriate boundaries and promote self-care principles.

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this training, participants will:

- Recognize the behavioral responses to trauma that are observed in practice
- Examine practice scenarios that may have underpinnings of trauma
- Apply professional values to a framework for intervention
- Apply the Ethics of Care within trauma-informed interventions
- Examine concepts of secondary trauma and compassion fatigue in practice
- Explore boundary issues with clients and co-workers in trauma
- Outline risk factors and elements of self-care helpful in maintaining ethical practice

Wisconsin Caregiver Academy

Digital Badges – New in 2019!

UW-Green Bay's Wisconsin Caregiver Academy will now award an exclusive Digital Badge credential for the completion of each state-approved Train-the-Trainer course.

What is a "Digital Badge" and Why is It Important?

A Digital Badge is a micro-credential that validates an accomplishment, skillset or competency a learner has mastered. One of the newest and most innovative credentials emerging in professional education and training, the Digital Badge highlights the mastery of specific skills that are crucial to performing at the highest levels in your field. In the absence of or in addition to a bachelor's degree or other degree in the field, Digital Badges:

- Are a quick and effective way of highlighting your mastery of skills and validating your professional development.
- Can be placed on your resume, ePortfolio or on any digital platform, such as LinkedIn.
- Represent a new and innovative way to differentiate yourself from others in your field and provide you with a competitive edge in the job market.

DHS State-Approved Train-the-Trainer Courses

- Medication Administration
- Standard Precautions
- Fire Safety
- First Aid and Choking

These Train-the-Trainer courses have been developed and approved by the Wisconsin Department of Health Services, Bureau of Assisted Living and the Division of Quality Assurance, to offer an option for individuals without the required background to seek approval as Community-Based Residential Facilities (CBRF) instructors. These courses provide participants with the program knowledge, training skills and curriculum to offer high-quality trainings within their own organizations.

Online Courses

Continuing Education Courses for Trainers

- Medication Administration

Employee and Task-Specific Training Sessions

Task-Specific courses for caregivers will now be offered online to accommodate your busy schedule. Visit www.uwgb.edu/wicare for a full list of online courses.

Certified Nursing Assistant

Certified Nursing Assistants (CNAs) play an important role as members of the comprehensive healthcare team in a variety of medical settings. CNAs are employed in hospitals, long-term care facilities, nursing homes, hospices, community care facilities and as home health aides in patients' homes. In addition to mastering technical skills, students will learn additional concepts necessary to providing excellent person-centered care.

This course includes a combination of lectures, laboratory practices and supervised clinical work at a medical care facility and is recognized and approved by the Wisconsin Department of Health Services. Upon successful completion of the course, the student is eligible to take the Wisconsin Nursing Assistant Competency Examination.

This course is offered as a five-week accelerated program!

Emergency Management, Planning and Administration

The problems facing today's emergency management professionals are complex and multifaceted. The next generation of emergency management professionals will require high levels of competency in operational expertise, academic credentials, response protocols, critical analysis skills, policy and strategic planning. UW-Green Bay's online bachelor's degree in Organizational Leadership with an Emphasis in Emergency Management offers a comprehensive undergraduate program in Leadership Studies, covering the core elements of the cycle of emergency management. This program is applicable to all professions.

In addition to the bachelor's degree option, you can pursue a Certificate of Emergency Management, Planning and Administration fully online through UW-Green Bay's Division of Continuing Education and Community Engagement. This 15-credit, five-course certificate program is offered fully online for graduate or undergraduate credit and can be completed in two years, taking one course per academic term.

College Credit in High School

Earn College Credit in High School through UW-Green Bay!

UW-Green Bay's College Credit in High School program makes college courses available to Wisconsin high school students and their families, saving them thousands of dollars and up to one full year of college! It is not too early to begin thinking about your high school coursework and where it might lead you in the future! The College Credit in High School program is a concurrent enrollment program where students earn both high school and college credit for a single course. UW-Green Bay offers college credit courses within high schools and provides opportunities for academically qualified high school students to engage in college-level learning experiences. Taught by qualified, UW-Green Bay-approved high school teachers, students enroll in courses at the high school that are the same as those offered on campus. Upon successful completion, students receive a college grade on an official UW-Green Bay transcript. The program demonstrates UW-Green Bay's commitment to maintaining access and affordability in higher education and advancing the Wisconsin Idea through collaborative efforts with K-12 schools.

Benefits of taking college courses in high school:

- Get a head start on college
- Save hundreds or even thousands of dollars in tuition
- Accelerate the completion of a college degree
- Experience college rigor while in high school and develop skills for college success
- Explore new areas of interest

After successfully completing college courses and graduating from high school, you may be able to register for courses earlier than your peers due to your earned credits. This could help you get the courses you need when you need them. These earned credits may also give you more flexibility to study abroad, explore additional subjects or pursue graduation early!

Partner High Schools

UW-Green Bay partners with nearly 50 high schools throughout Wisconsin whose students and families are already benefiting from earning college credits in high school.

Check out these partnerships at www.uwgb.edu/ccih/partner-schools.

Small Business Development Center

Working to Support Your Success

The Wisconsin SBDC Network serves businesses at all stages, and the Wisconsin Small Business Development Center at UW-Green Bay is part of that statewide network, supporting entrepreneurs and business owners through no-cost, confidential consulting and targeted educational programs. Regional SBDC experts facilitate improvement and growth for small and emerging mid-size companies and help launch successful new enterprises. As a program within the UW-Green Bay Austin E. Cofrin School of Business, the SBDC offers statewide business outreach through the Wisconsin Network providing education, referrals, sophisticated tools and resources to help businesses evolve.

The SBDC provides no-cost business counseling services and professional development training in the University's 16-county primary service region, serving all four counties and communities housing UW-Green Bay campuses, as well as the surrounding counties that make up the region of Northeast Wisconsin.

Education and training opportunities to start a business, grow as a leader and enhance skills for employees to excel in the workforce include:

Entrepreneurial Training Program

Successful business owners have a plan — let us help you build yours! Whether your business is growing or brand new, writing a business plan is critical to building a profitable venture, especially to attract financing from lenders or investors. The Entrepreneurial Training Program (ETP) is comprised of eight efficient sessions to help you develop a plan for a thriving, profitable business. In this program, you will learn to identify customers, determine their needs and turn that information into a feasible plan for starting or growing your business.

Let UW-Green Bay's Small Business Development Center help you to plan, start and grow your business. Contact the SBDC at 920-496-2117 or sbdc@uwgb.edu with questions and learn more at www.uwgb.edu/sbdc.

Project Management Certificate Program

Our Project Management Certificate Program will provide you with the knowledge, skills and tools you need to successfully manage projects and project teams. The renowned Frank P. Saladis Project Management Certificate Program is an innovative and collaborative educational opportunity that provides participants with a targeted and unique learning opportunity. The program is self-guided so participants can complete the learning activities according to their own schedules.

Supervisory Leadership Certificate Program

Regardless of the field in which you work, supervisors and their ability to form and lead effective teams is at the heart of organizational success. Earn your Supervisory Leadership Certificate by attending the Core Workshop (Supervisory Leadership 101) and then choose ten days of one- or two-day electives within three years. Elective topics include building teams, resolving conflict, improving efficiency, managing diversity, maximizing performance, managing projects and many more.

Cake Decorating

Wednesday, January 30 and
Tuesday, February 5, 2019
6-8 p.m.

Marinette Campus Cafeteria
Fee: $39

Interested in cake decorating and looking to improve your skills? Now's your chance! Learn how to stack, frost and decorate cakes and cupcakes in this two-night class.

The first class will be all about frosting. Learn how to make Marissa Axtell's popular frosting, and the techniques of frosting cakes and cupcakes. In the second class, participants will put those skills to the test when they frost their cake/cupcakes. You will also learn how to make decorations and will leave with a finished product.

Participants will be required to bring an unfrosted 8-inch cake, or 12 unfrosted cupcakes to the second class.

About the Instructor

Marissa Axtell's love of baking started as a hobby. As friends and family started to take notice of this hobby, and as they enjoyed the fruits of her labor, they started to make requests for her baking. The requests continued and evolved into starting her business, Marissa's Country Kitchen, this past year. Customers delight in her ability to combine both classic and unexpected flavors.

Marissa has catered events from birthdays, graduation and retirement parties to weddings. Marissa's goal when creating for her customer is to understand the event and what the customer is looking for. With that understanding, she then creates a masterpiece of a dessert that will complement the event and venue and delight those in attendance.

About the Instructor

Denise Miller has been an American Sign Language (ASL) Interpreter for 28 years and has been teaching ASL for 16 years. She works in many settings and brings to the classroom a breadth of knowledge and experience and promises to make this a FUN and EXCITING class!

Sleep Deeply with Essential Oils

Thursday, March 21, 2019

5:30-7:30 p.m.

Hillside Hall, Room H218, Manitowoc Campus

Fee: $45

We live in a fast-paced world. Often that reality catches up to us when it is finally time to lay our heads down at night. We may find ourselves lying in bed plagued by thoughts of what we need to do the following day, or find ourselves replaying the events of the day in our heads. Are you someone who finds you have a lot of mental chatter at night? Even though you are exhausted, do you find it hard to fall asleep? Are you seeking ways to naturally achieve peace and calm prior to turning in for the night?

Join Sara Schoenecker, CA, CAT1, as she teaches you to soothe your senses with five essential oils renowned for their ability to calm the mental chatter and aid you in falling asleep. In this dynamic “make and take” workshop, participants will explore how essential oils affect the brain and learn relaxation techniques to incorporate into their nightly routines. Participants will create an essential oil personal inhaler to take home and use that same night. Class fee includes materials.
