Areas of Improvement

Proofreading and Editing – By reading my work out loud I have found that I pick up more errors and generally produce a better product.

Speaking with Clarity- Sometimes I don't enunciate very well and mumble quite frequently. I have started to record myself speaking and make a conscience effort to slow down and speak with a loud robust voice.

Clarifying expectations of group members- I will often do others work if they don't do it themselves, I have realized that this happens because I don't clarify what they're specific duties are.
