Trainer: Gail Trimberger, PhD

Course Description:

This presentation focuses on grief and loss, from a variety of causes, and the tangible and intangible impact on children and youth. The discussion will include the role of helping professionals in supporting youth through their losses.

About your Trainer:

Dr. Gail Trimberger is an Associate Professor in Social Work and the MSW Program Coordinator at UW-Green Bay. Gail has over twenty years of direct practice experience in various medical social work settings including public health, long term care, acute care crisis intervention, and hospice. Gail's background includes direct practice, administration, and supervision in each of those settings. Gail's areas of expertise include older adults, end-of-life, grief and loss, ethics and boundaries, and social work leadership. Her research interests focus on professional boundary development, leadership, end-of-life, and children's bereavement. Gail received her MSSW in Social Work from the University of Wisconsin-Madison; her PhD in Leadership Studies from Marian University and she is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker.
