RE: Coronavirus

Dear UW-Green Bay Students, Faculty and Staff,

As you may be aware, there is an outbreak of a new virus in China, called "2019nCoV" or "Wuhan Coronavirus." The University of Wisconsin-Green Bay expresses its deepest concerns and support to the people of Wuhan.

Please be advised that no students have arrived from Wuhan, China this semester and there are no reported cases of the Coronavirus on our campuses. CDC has provided information to all travelers from Wuhan China with information and what steps they should take if signs/symptoms develop. In addition, we have reached out to students who may have traveled to Wuhan China over break and provided information related to the outbreak, symptoms and protocol to follow if they become ill.

The health and safety of our students, faculty and staff is a top priority. University officials are closely and continuously monitoring this situation and are taking every measure and action that is being directed by the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) and Brown County Public Health.

If there is any information that would indicate an actual health emergency related to the Coronavirus, we will be sending an immediate emergency notification.

Please read the following link at the CDC for specific information:
