Eisenhower Elementary School to Launch Phuture Phoenix Primary Program Dec. 6

GREEN BAY, WI – December 3, 2013 – In partnership with the University of Wisconsin – Green Bay (UWGB), Eisenhower Elementary will host inaugural kick-off assemblies to announce their participation in the Phuture Phoenix Primary Program on Friday, December 6. Now in its 11th year, the Phuture Phoenix program is designed to increase access to higher education by providing an opportunity for students from traditionally underrepresented backgrounds to believe post-secondary education is important, attainable and available in our region. A celebration assembly for third through fifth graders will take place from 8:45 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., and the kindergarten through second grade program will follow from 9:45 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Both assemblies will take place in Eisenhower's gymnasium, 1770 Amy St.

The new program at Eisenhower will be based on a primary program already in place at Jefferson Elementary, and funding for the start-up program will be provided by the Green Bay Packers Foundation. "We have been working very hard to transform our school culture and to get kids thinking about going on to college in their future," said Eisenhower Principal Cory Vandertie. "The entire school staff has embraced the idea of sending the college message, many of them volunteering their time to paint college colors in the doorways of our classrooms and post bulletin boards featuring college goals."

During the assemblies, students will watch a video highlighting their teacher's college experience, and Phlash the UWGB mascot will make an appearance. For more information about the Phuture Phoenix program, visit <http://www.uwgb.edu/phuturephoenix/>.
