Ethics and Boundaries*
Trainer: Mark Morrison, ACSW/LCSW

This ethics and boundaries training has been developed to examine the ethical responsibilities of employees to their workplace settings. In order to fully understand the implications of employee behavior, attendees will structure discussions around the concept of moral courage. Employee responsibility for promoting ethical workplace cultures is defined as one carried by all employees of the organization and participants will apply the NASW Code of Ethics, MPSW 20 and an ethical decision-making model to common situations in organizational settings.

4.0 CEH’s (accepted by the Wisconsin Dept. of Safety and Professional Services)

$10 members/$60 non-members (includes breakfast and materials)

*All E & B Trainings are 8:30am-12:30pm

Mark Morrison, ACSW, LCSW
Trainer for Ethics and Boundaries

Mark Morrison is the retired Deputy Director of Calumet County Department of Health and Human Services. He has extensive clinical and administrative experience working in human services programs, and is knowledgeable of federal and state program guidelines. He holds a Masters in Social Work from the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee and a Master of Divinity from McCormick Theological Seminary of Chicago, IL. Mark began his career in 1982 as a therapist working with youth and families in a private non-profit agency in Illinois. During his tenure there, he worked his way up to Clinical Director and then Executive Director of the agency. He is a Wisconsin Licensed Clinical Social Worker since 1995, and was the 1994 NASW Social Worker of the Year in the Jane Adams District. Since coming to Wisconsin in 1994 he has provided leadership to county human service programs in 2 counties in northeastern Wisconsin. In his current position as Deputy Director in Calumet County, he is responsible for clinical oversight of long term care, behavioral health and child welfare units. He was recently hired as an Ad Hoc Faculty at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay to train for the Behavioral Health Training Partnership.