

CDCP Regulatory Crosswalks

If you recently hired a Certified Direct Care Professional (CDCP), you may be wondering what skills they've gained. You may be unsure what additional training they need. We have answers for you!

The CDCP curriculum trains direct care workers on fourteen core competencies applicable to many care settings. The Department of Health Services Division of Quality Assurance (DQA) reviewed the CDCP curriculum and determined how it meets training requirements defined by administrative code. We call these analysis documents "regulatory crosswalks" because they show how the CDCP curriculum and state regulations (administrative code) intersect.

Different administrative codes govern different care settings. Depending on the administrative code that governs your agency or residence, you may be able to offer abbreviated training to new staff members who are CDCPs. We hope this information helps you streamline your hiring process for CDCPs since they bring a great base of knowledge to your organization.
