MESSAGE FROM THE CHANCELLOR

Dear Graduate,

Today, we celebrate your remarkable accomplishments, unwavering perseverance and relentless determination to complete your degree. Congratulations!

I am thrilled to share this significant occasion with you. To reach this milestone, you've thoughtfully balanced work, friendships, family and studies – overcoming countless challenges along the way.

This is how you RISE!

I hold the greatest admiration for you and applaud the dedicated members of the UW-Green Bay faculty and staff who supported you along this journey. Your determined efforts have prepared you to be a leader in your respective fields. I urge you to use your experience to foster genuine connections, solve problems and think creatively to address future challenges.

My greatest hope is that you leave not only with a degree but with a profound understanding of the responsibility that comes with it—to value those around you, to see the world through many lenses, and to lead for the greater good, in whatever path you choose. While this degree marks a significant milestone in your education, I urge you to continue learning throughout your entire life.

Remember, there is great potential to make a difference for each of you. I hope you will realize that full potential and join the 50,000-plus Phoenix alumni who are making a positive impact in their communities.

Now and forever more, YOU are a Phoenix. You advance fearlessly, take charge and believe in your ability to shape the future, you are dedicated to a life of learning, you create a supportive, connected and collaborative environment where everyone can thrive and you cherish the journey and those who journey with you. You are Built to Rise.

It is an honor for me to serve this great University and to celebrate this important accomplishment in your life with you!

With deep appreciation,

ACADEMIC RITUAL AND ATTIRE

The procedure followed for awarding of degrees at most American universities is based on a practice developed at the University of Paris almost 800 years ago. In those days, the Bishop of Paris, like every other bishop, was responsible for educational matters. As the new university developed, he naturally claimed authority over curriculum and degree granting. His authority however was disputed by teachers who asserted only they could judge students' qualifications.

A threatened impasse was resolved by a compromise under which the teachers judged the merits of the students and then recommended them to the bishop for their degrees. You see a secularized version with the Vice Chancellor, as representative of the faculty, certifying the students as qualified. The Chancellor, as representative of the Regents, who have replaced the bishop as the governing authority, then authorizes the awarding of degrees.

The caps and gowns worn by graduates and faculty are based on costumes used in universities of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, particularly at Oxford and Cambridge in England. The academic dress has been used in the United States from colonial times and was standardized by Intercollegiate Code in 1895. The black gowns worn by the associate, bachelor's, master's and doctoral degree holders differ in design and ornamentation, particularly in the sleeves. The cap is black mortarboard with the tassel worn over the left front quadrant. Undergraduate candidates shift their tassel from right to left at the time their degrees are conferred.

Hoods symbolize the master's and doctoral degrees, with the colors representing the field of study and the awarding institution. Graduates may wear regalia in recognition of academic status and honor society memberships.

THE MEANING OF HONORS

The use of Latin terms reflects the medieval origins of academic ceremony: cum laude indicates distinction; magna cum laude, great distinction; summa cum laude, highest distinction.

At UW-Green Bay, students achieve a 3.5 to 3.749 grade point average (on a 4.0 scale) to graduate cum laude. Magna cum laude honors are awarded to students who achieve a cumulative average of 3.75 to 3.849. For highest honors — summa cum laude — students must average 3.85 or higher; or a 3.75 to 3.849 plus eligibility for and successful completion of an honors-in-the-major project. To qualify for honors, students must complete 48 credits in residence.

Some majors offer special distinction honors in the major. For this distinction, students must achieve a 3.5 or higher grade point average on all courses required for their major, and a 3.75 grade point in all junior-senior level major courses required, and complete an honors-in-the-major project.

Students graduating with honors will be recognized as such with the following after their name:

- * Cum laude
-  Magna cum laude
-  Summa cum laude
- † Honors in the major
- + With Honors

RAQUEL BOTBYL

Leap of Faith

Growing up in Menominee, Michigan, Raquel Botbyl learned early on the value of persistence and, when needed, the art of the pivot. She still recalls falling in love with gymnastics as a three-year-old in the small gym at her local YMCA. “I remember going to classes with my parents, and they would always have little obstacles and things set up, and I would just run right through them.”

As a soon-to-be graduate with a UW-Green Bay Business degree, Botbyl speaks with fondness of her early commitment to gymnastics and how it prepared her for the resilience that’s part of being a Phoenix.

Her childhood training sparked early maturity and self-discipline, and she was captivated by the older gymnasts - their strength, confidence and presence on the competitive stage moved her. “Seeing the high-school girls competing and traveling... that was something I wanted to do,” she said. She pushed herself through nerves, difficult skills and early breakthroughs. She was successful and completely dedicated to the sport.

Then at 15, everything changed. A gymnastics accident caused her to suffer an arm injury. Despite surgeries and occupational therapy, she was unable to return to competitive gymnastics.

Unable to compete, Botbyl poured herself into coaching at the Menominee YMCA, shifting from athlete to mentor. Helping younger gymnasts work through fear and frustration gave her a new sense of purpose. “Coaching helped me stay connected to the sport,” she said. “And it helped me grow.” She honed her early leadership skills, coaching young gymnasts to learn responsibility, how to treat others with respect and helped them build confidence as they advanced into higher levels and earned individual and state titles.

When she arrived at UW-Green Bay, Botbyl was undecided about her major. She considered dietetics, healthcare and several fields connected to her physical therapy experiences, but a single general education business course shifted her path. “Everything just clicked,” she said. “That class confirmed that business was where I belonged.” She found UW-Green Bay to be an environment that encouraged exploration. Advisors helped her test new areas. Faculty noticed her initiative. Student organizations welcomed her leadership.

Through the Student Association of Management (SAM) Club, Botbyl discovered the RISE Research Assistant Program, where she paired her interest in human behavior with strong analytical strengths. She joined Professor Radosevich’s research team, spending two years studying burnout, phone usage and the psychological effects of emerging technologies. “This year, we’re looking at how tools like ChatGPT or Gemini affect people's focus, mood and confidence," she explained. Her work explored questions that echoed her own experience with pressure and resilience: How do people stay focused? What causes someone to thrive or burn out? Her dedication earned recognition through the Student Community Engagement Value Award, reaffirming her commitment to community impact.

Botbyl also made a significant mark through campus leadership. She co-founded Women in Business and now serves as its president, helping students build community, connect with professionals and grow their confidence. "It's about helping women find their place in business," she said. She also serves as vice president of UW–Green Bay's Association of Supply Chain Management (ASCM) student chapter, bridging classroom concepts with real-world application. The leadership skills she developed as a young gymnastics coach appear throughout her college experience—mentoring peers, planning events and modeling resilience.

As graduation approaches, Botbyl plans to pursue her Master of Business Administration while continuing her research. She envisions a future in the sports, health and wellness industry, possibly owning her own firm or working with a sports organization. "I'd love to balance both—pursuing graduate school while growing something of my own," she said. Although her competitive gymnastics career ended far earlier than she expected, the lessons endure. "Resilience, confidence, integrity—they all started there," she said.

Her advice to future students reflects the perspective she's earned: "Don't compare your timeline to anyone else's. Everyone's path looks different—and that's okay. College is what you make it. The growth, the people you meet, the opportunities you find—it's all worth it."

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Terrence Fulwiler

Mr. Terrence “Terry” Fulwiler, is a distinguished business leader, community advocate and longtime supporter of Northeast Wisconsin. Mr. Fulwiler is the former CEO and Chairman of WS Packaging Group, one of the nation’s largest label and packaging manufacturers. His leadership in the industry has earned him national recognition, including being named the Tag & Label Institute’s Converter of the Year in 2000 and receiving the prestigious Stanton Avery Lifetime Achievement Award in 2010 for his lasting impact on the label printing field.

In addition to his professional accomplishments, Mr. Fulwiler has been widely celebrated for his community engagement. He received the Green Bay Free Enterprise Award in 2011 for outstanding contributions to both business and civic life. His extensive board service spans organizations such as Bellin Health Systems, the Green Bay Packers, (where he is an Emeritus board member) Nicolet Bank Corp., East Shore Industries, Bellin College, the UW-Green Bay Council of Trustees and many others.

Born and raised in Algoma, Wisconsin, Mr. Fulwiler is a lifelong resident of Algoma and a proud graduate of the University of Michigan with a degree in aerospace engineering. He remains active in his community and enjoys golf and following professional football, especially the college draft.

EMBERS OF THE PHOENIX

The UW-Green Bay Story

“The Phoenix must burn to emerge.” – Janet Fitch

At UW-Green Bay, the Phoenix is more than a symbol—it’s a legacy of transformation, resilience, and the power of rising stronger than before.

Students arrive with sparks—some barely glowing, others burning bright. Here, they are challenged, supported, and inspired. They rise through adversity, through discovery, through connection. And when they graduate, they don’t leave the fire behind—they carry it forward.

Graduates, you are now Alumni and the embers of this legacy. You are the quiet strength behind every rising student, the warmth in every mentorship, the light in every opportunity created.

You are proof that the Phoenix rises not just once—but again and again.

Alumni, your story matters. Your fire still burns. Whether you mentor a student, attend an event, share your journey, or support a scholarship—you are reigniting the flame for the next generation of Phoenix.

Come back. Give back. Rise again.

Get involved today.

Because at UW-Green Bay, the fire never fades—it evolves, it spreads, and it endures. Together, we are a living legacy. Together, we rise.

LAND ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

We at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay acknowledge the First Nations people who are the original inhabitants of the region. The Ho-Chunk Nation and the Menominee Nation are the original First People of Wisconsin and both Nations have ancient historical and spiritual connections to the land that our institution now resides upon. Today, Wisconsin is home to 12 First Nations communities including the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin, Forest County Potawatomi, Ojibwe Nation communities, Stockbridge-Munsee Community Band of Mohican Indians, and the Brothertown Indian Nation.

We acknowledge the First Nations Peoples of Wisconsin.

PHOENIX FIGHT SONG

Hail! To the Fighting Phoenix
Rise up and light the flame!
Green Bay is the home of Champions
We're gonna' win this game!
Hail! To the Fighting Phoenix
We're rising up to say
Fight! Fight! Fight! For a win tonight
The Champions from old Green Bay!

ALMA MATER

Let us rise above these waters,
Men and women of Green Bay.
Rise in knowledge,
Rise in wisdom,
Rise in friendship sealed today.
As the Phoenix rose from flame,
Let us rise and still proclaim,
That we pledge our Alma Mater,
And the memories of her name.

"Alma Mater" composed by Prof. Emeritus Lovell Ives with lyrics by former Prof. Peter Stambler
