Music

The Music Program was praised for providing a high quality educational experience. The program has a well articulated program assessment process that is based on a variety of methods including standards provided by DPI, faculty assessment of juries and recitals, and student teaching oversight. The program also provided evidence that assessment results are used to make changes to the curriculum to better prepare students. A concern was raised about the decreasing number of majors along with a recommendation to consider ways to increase the number of music scholarships. Other areas in need of attention were lack of funds to purchase and upgrade equipment, and rehearsal and classroom space that is in need to upgrading and renovation. Continuation of the program was recommended at all levels of review.
