Master of Social Work

The MSW program was found to function effectively and graduates 30-35 MSW students each year. It is an evolving program that is secure in its position in the State and communities that it serves. The program’s goal is to educate professionals ready to assume administrative and direct practice leadership roles within this region's increasingly diverse rural and metropolitan environments. The MSW Program Competencies provide an excellent and comprehensive structure for the curriculum and guidance for student learning in the classroom and in the field.
